I.—WAR.
Within our strong Republic war has grown
To be a symbol of the barbarous years
When justice cut with clashing swords and
When might was law to men and ruled alone;
When a mailed warrior on a bloody throne
Was called a hero; when a people's tears
Were weighed less than an emperor's glory, and
The ears
Of truth were stunted with human crime and grown.

We of the Western world are one for peace,
Though Europe clings to slavery to her past,
And cautions thunder on her rear and shores:
The time has come when free-born men should cease
To play like murderers, and be bold at last
For right which takes in mercy and restores.

II.—FAITH.
Dear brother, there is something more than doubt
Beneath the fire and tumult of our age:
A faith as deep as wisdom in the sage—
That truth, though given, can never be cast out;
That life is high and precious, hedged about
With mysteries which inspire a noble rage;
That we were given our valiant will to wage
A fight which shall not end in shame or rout.

Man's mission is immortal, though men die;
We bear a fate within us, and we strive
Out of the deep conviction of our hearts:
We were not born to weep, and rail and sigh;
Our path leads upward, and our hopes survive
The day that brings its sorrow and departs.

III.—INFINITY.
The human mind will never cease to dream
Of things which dwell as sky-hidden beyond its reach,
Of worlds whereof no living souls can teach,
Far from our sight as stars at mid-day seem.
The mind outdies the night, its splendours gleam
Upon the dark and in the hope of each—
Yet, powerless as the rimmed sea on a beach,
It throbs against the infinite, the supreme.

Wherefore, though we may work, and plan,
and build,
And hold our vivid science high and true,
There comes a time when every heart is sore,
With a wild yearning which is never stilled,
When wisdom searches vainly for a clue,
And trembling men upon their knees adore.

Two Lights.

The distant city's glowing lights
Loomed up before his boyish eyes—
As from his village home he went—
Like golden hints of Paradise.
He filled his purse with treasured gold,
He gained the doubtful praise of men;
Then, pausing from his toil, he turned
His eyes upon his home again.
He saw what he had sacrificed:
He wept to think of lost delights,
And o'er the city's glare he saw
The beauty of the village lights.

Selected Tale.

FRIENDLESS.

"There's some sort of a furrin body at the door waitin' ye, ma'am," said an Irish girl to her mistress. There had been already half a dozen "furrin" and other "bodies" asking favours that day, and the lady of the house was weary, and had lain down on the lounge in her room, with a new book in her hand. "Tell her I am lying down," she said with out looking her eyes from her book. The girl returned saying: "It's what she's waitin', like all the rest uv 'em, ma'am; but I can't repeat half the gibberish she told me."

"Tell her I have no work, and know of none elsewhere," was the answer. The door closed heavily under the hand of the heartless girl; and the lady felt that she had done wrong, and almost heard the words, "For ye yourself know the heart of a stranger." And the days came back to her with strange power when she, a young and beautiful orphan, had crossed the sea from England to gain her bread by her accomplishments; and she remembered how, after one year of toil and loneliness, when a kind word was a jewel to her, she became mistress of this beautiful home, and the mother of the lonely little ones who had been her pupils before. She wished she had seen this "furrin body" and listened to her story, if nothing more, and cheered "the heart of a stranger."

As the poor applicant descended the steps after receiving the cool message, made cooler by the servant's heartless tone, she looked up the street and then down, as if not knowing which way to go, and then moved off in an aimless sort of a way, and was soon lost out of sight.

She went up one street and down another, occasionally ringing a bell, only to be told that the lady was out, or that she could not be seen. She was a stranger in the city, and soon got confused in her wanderings; but she knew the street and number of her temporary home. She was weary at last with her ringing and inquiring, and asked a boy the way to B— street. He directed her, and she turned her face thither, when she was seized with a sudden impulse to ring one more bell. Ascending the long flight of stone steps before her, she did so, and was not a little surprised to see the same stern, cold woman who had repulsed her an hour ago— miles away, as she thought. Before she could frame a question, she was saluted with:

"What! are ye back again, after the lady tellin' ye to be gone, that she had no other work nor charity for ye? And I tell ye—"

"Catherine," called the lady, who had heard the heartless words, "I want to see that woman in my room. Send her right up."

"She's the same furrin ye sent away an hour ago, ma'am; she's just persistin on yer helpin' her whether ye will or not," said the woman.

"Send her up, Catherine," was the reply. The lady was surprised to see, in place of the rough creature she had pictured to herself, a well developed girl of twenty years, with cheeks like roses, teeth like pearls, and with a flood of golden hair which the proud cat belle might envy—a buxom, rustic beauty.

"You gives me work; I does it good for small moneys. I walk, walk, all days for four weeks, and ask much lady vil she give me work. But no work yet! Wen passage is paid, I has twelve dollars, and I pay Ludwig Anderson wife two dollar week, and cash iron and ows for my home till I has work. Now six weeks gone, money gone, sleep gone; Ludwig sick, and must work hard for his child and wife. And can no more eat his bread for no pay. I takes some very good English, cause I know girl in Sweden who has been five years in 'Morica; and more I learn on ship, and of 'Merican family in home with Ludwig, so ladies have no trouble with my Swedish talk."

"What can you do?" asked the lady.

"All things. I spins and weaves this gown and chawl and all my clothes. I can sew for quoon; I can knit stockings, wash good, make breads, cook dinner, all things for few moneys. I good to little children, and always smile! I do all the cry nights, when 'lone," and here her voice broke, as if she were breaking this rule for once.

"You may come to-morrow and stay a week, and if you are a good seamstress I will get you all the work you can do," said the lady, kindly, after reading the "good paper."

Selma dropped a low courtesy, and kissing the lady's hand, she said solemnly: "God he thank you; my mother the thank you; and myself thank you." "How strange," thought the lady, after Selma had gone to tell her joy to Ludwig's wife. "That no one engaged her before I saw her. Who could withstand her innocence and beauty?" There were good reasons why no one had lightened the poor girl's burden. No lady had seen her! All had left to the judgment of weary or thoughtless servants to decide whom they should or should not see.

When Selma had been a week in this house she was found to be a necessity there. No one could charm away a headache or sing a baby to sleep as she could. Another helper had not been dreamt in the house, but once Selma was there, it took on new charms for the whole family. Home became brighter for the father, because he saw more of his wife; she was relieved of much care, and had time to read and make herself interesting; and the children were entertained, instructed and loved by a girl who served them faithfully. When she had been two months in the house her friend Ludwig appeared one day with a letter from her mother in Sweden. And after laughing and crying over it, and kissing it tenderly many times, Selma gave this English version to her mistress:

"When you go away from me, child beloved, my heart was dark like night-time. Neighbors come and talk kind, but I went only to God then. When you get to land I say in my heart my child no home, no money, may be Ludwig dead, and she be with bad stranger. Many day, many week, I cry and pray, and then come letter—you safe with Ludwig, but hard times, no work. I want wings to fly over the sea to my child, but I have no wings, so I must sit still. My heart near breaks. All day I think, and all night I dream of only Selma, Selma. My heart be a great load, and my tears a fountain like King David, and I know not how I will live out in two from you, my child beloved!

"One day I sit, knit, knit, for my bread, and sudden fell on my soul a great peace from God about you. I hear no voice, I see no light, but only God's peace. Then I know it is well with you, that you have friends, and work, and His smile on you shine. All care go to the winds, and I have no wings to fly up to God's home, and I thank him, for he has hide my Selma, beloved, under his wing. That the blessed day of all days. Its sun never set, and all time I am happy for my child."

Here Selma paused, and, looking at her mistress, said: "Perhaps that day I come two times to your door, and God say to you, 'Take her in.'"

"No matter whether it was that very day or not, Selma. He sent you here, and I do truly thank him for it. That was my work, to comfort the heart of a stranger, and yours to relieve me of a load of care and worry. Be hopeful and faithful, and before long we will bring the dear mother from over the sea, and she can trust and pray and knit, knit, here as well as there."

Let us be careful how we send the stranger or any applicant for honest work from our door. We may thus thrust away both the work and the blessing which God designs for us.

Judah P. Benjamin.

A CONFEDERATE CABINET MINISTER BECOMES A FAMOUS LONDON LAWYER.

I doubt if there is at the South one man familiar with his country's history for the last 30 years who is not proud of the career of Judah P. Benjamin, writes a London correspondent of the Atlantic Constitution. In inquiring for his chambers, I learned from a middle temple barrister that Mr. Benjamin was regarded as to-day the greatest lawyer at the English bar. He is in court all day till 4 in the afternoon, then until 7:30 receives the solicitors in his chambers. After this he goes home to dine at his club at the West end. His only leisure is Sunday and an occasional evening. Short of stature, thick set, with a strong, bright eye, he is a man of simple, natural manner, relating his adventures, reverses and successes with the charming ease, grace and naturalness, mingled with a subtle playfulness characteristic of a good raconteur. He said, in talking of his adventures after the fall of Richmond, that the confederate government left Richmond in a body. He and Mr. Davis were together on their way to the trans-Mississippi department, and Mr. Davis left the party to meet his wife, on route, and it was in her camp that he was captured. The federals did not know that Mr. Davis was in the wagon train which was transporting Mrs. Davis and friend, and only approached cautiously to see what it meant. Mr. Benjamin continued his journey alone and, hearing of the capture of Mr. Davis, gave away his saddle and bridle, and, securing an old tree, threw over it a sheepskin, and, under an alias, playing farmer, at length reached the gulf coast. Here he took a small boat, and, coasting around until arriving at a point near Key West, he embarked in a small sail boat, open and without deck, for Nassau. Here the small, quaint-looking black and bright eyes glistened at this remarkable man related how, when the gulf stream almost carried them out into the open sea, when, battling against a head wind, and out of sight of land (for 100 miles was the distance), "and with one bushel of raw sweet potatoes to feed three men," when, almost without hope, at the last moment the wind changed, filled their small sail, carried them within sight of the lighthouse and enabled them to effect a landing just at the extreme northern point of the Bahamas. He landed in England in September, 1865. In June 1866, he was admitted to practice at the English bar; his admission was granted by the Benchers of Lincoln's Inn, in six months instead of three years, as the rules generally require, on the ground that he was an old member of the bar of a country governed under the system of the common law and the fact that he was a political exile. He published his "Benjamin on Sales" in 1868, having in the intervening years supported himself and his family by writing leading articles for the newspapers. The first year he made about £1000. It rapidly increased after that. At the present rate of Mr. Benjamin's income, he will in a few years, if he is not now, be the possessor of vast wealth. "My book gave me practice, and now, wonderful to relate, I have," said he, "upon looking over my cases yesterday, just one-half of the cases from the realm (i. e. the whole of England, Scotland and Ireland) before the House of Lords on the appeal." Mr. Benjamin's daughter has married a French officer of the staff, and his wife and daughter live in Paris, where he goes to them and spends all his vacation time, of which he has four seasons, three of 10 to 12 days each, and one called "the long," of three months.

The Holyoke Herald says a bird execution occurred in that city on Monday, the victim being one of a nest of sparrows on a building in Depot square. It gives the following account: "Some unusual confusion was first observed in the nest, and, after a while, a sparrow returned from flight with a long fibre. Several of the birds seized it and were noticed to be winding it around something in considerable excitement. Soon a sparrow hopped upon the rim of a nest. Then others surrounded the unlucky one and pushed him off. The bird swung down and hung a foot below the nest. The fibre had been wound around the bird's neck by his comrades. The executed bird made no apparent effort to escape, but hung quietly and died. The bird was still hanging from the nest on Friday morning, and any one can corroborate the incident, which, seemingly doubtful, is strictly true."

When the German Empress travels during the summer her railway carriage is protected against the heat in a very ingenious manner. Its roof is covered with a layer of turf, which is watered frequently during the day. A Baltimore policeman eloped with a girl, and then arrested his father-in-law while he was escorting his bride home. This smart officer ought to have his pay raised.

You never heard of a strike among astronomers. Their business is always looking up.

WHAT WAS IT JOHN

That made your face so free and clear from pimples, said his sweetheart. Why, don't you know? For over a year I took every thing I could think of without helping me, until I bought a bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and now I haven't one pimple on my face. It is the best blood cleanser I ever saw.

Sketches of Union Generals.

G. K. WARREN.

This skillful engineer, brilliant soldier, and successful commander was in command of the Fifth corps after Grant opened the Wilderness campaign. He was a slight built man, thin, wiry and nervous, but possessing great powers of endurance. He had a dark, swarthy complexion, straight black hair, Grecian features, and large expressive eyes that could beam in tenderness or flash with the fury of battle. He was very quiet and retiring in his manner, but somehow his men all loved him and had great faith in his ability. He was reckless and daring to a fault, spurring himself neither exposure or fatigue. No sacrifices were too great for him to make, no danger too great for him to face, if it would only bring success to the Union cause. He was a successful General, and won a reputation as a soldier of which any man would be proud. We always regretted the act of General Sheridan in removing him from the command of our corps at the battle of Five Forks. It was a serious mistake, and one that should have been righted long before this date. Warren had encountered dangers, and had fought bravely and with success through the war. Five Forks was the decisive battle that closed it. Warren had done all that a man could do in getting his corps into the battle. We had fought like demons and captured the enemy that had driven Sheridan and his cavalry from the field. Sheridan, brave, rash, impulsive, excited as a madman by the bloody victory we had gained, received an impression that Warren had not done enough, ordered General Griffin to relieve him of his command upon the field of victory in the midst of the thousands of prisoners he had captured. Before Griffin could reach the side of General Warren to assume the command, Warren had stormed the last position of the foe, leading a column of troops across an open field under a deadly fire, with his corps flag in his hand—a feat of reckless and gallant bravery which would have honored General Sheridan himself. We could forgive Sheridan for the injustice of an act performed in a moment of excitement, but to persist in it for seventeen long years, preferring to crush a brother officer rather than acknowledge an error he had committed is not an honorable thing for a brave man to do. The old Fifth corps still stand by their commander, and whether he receives tardy justice or not, he has the sympathy and love of the men he once led to battle.—An Old Private.

She Recognized It.

"If you will send me the Wasp, I will paint you a plaque," said a woman with streaks of grey in her hair and a boarding-house kind of manner.

"What is a plaque, madam?" "A painting; round; painted on a wooden plate."

"Is it a landscape with some blue African mountains about four miles away, leaning affectionately over a farm house with a gable roof in the immediate foreground?"

"Yes."

"Is there a small mountain shadowed lake, stretching away about four inches into the blue horizon and a Great Eastern yacht with a giant navigator resting dreamily on its placid surface?"

"Yes."

"Do the trees rise up in soft, dewy herbaceousness, with large beautiful leaves on them, two sizes larger than the door of the house?"

"Yes, yes; where did you see it?"

"And is there a man on a fence with an eight-foot mastodon dog at his feet, looking down at him in thunder at a boat like that can sail over the glass-like rim of a two-foot puddle without running aground six times in six minutes?"

"Yes; the very one!"

"Well, we have one of those. We've been using it for firewood all winter, and some of it is in the wood box yet, and, as seventeen young ladies are painting some more of it for us,—"

But there was an artistic flit and an indignant flutter, and the plaques was only represented by the reverberations of a four-horse power slam of the door.—San Francisco Wasp.

It is an open secret that the extremely fashionable young men of the day wear very tight trousers, well defined waists slightly suggestive of corsets, hats with curved brims, very tall colors, very light ties and a white flower placed very close to their darling chins. Their boots taper at the toe to points so sharp as to defy nature and cause the heart of the corn doctor to leap with joy whenever he beholds them. These details may not prove uninteresting to the young men who live a distance from the great cities and wear clothing made by the village tailor.

A big black bear walked into Pownall, Vt., the other morning and cleared the streets of that village in about two minutes. One man loaded his gun, followed him and put a ball in a tender and fatal spot. The bear proved to be a civilized animal, which earned the bread and butter of two Italians, who soon appeared on the scene.

A Famous Stock Farm.

GEORGE L. LORILLARD'S STABLE AT ISLIP—NOTED JOCKEYS—FAMOUS TROTTERS.

About three miles from Islip, L. I., is the summer residence and farm of George L. Lorillard. Eight hundred acres comprise the extent of the place and a large portion of the ground is laid out in such a picturesque manner as to suggest fairyland itself. What was at one time only a barren waste has been made, thanks to the expenditure of a vast sum of money and the employment of the highest skilled labor, to blossom like the rose. It is here that all the famous horses owned by Mr. Lorillard are kept during the greater portion of the year. The stable is a large, low wooden building, octagonal in shape and capable of accommodating about fifty horses. Each animal has a good sized apartment to himself and the whole is kept scrupulously neat. An army of small boys and young men are employed the year round to care for the stock. The largest of these employees are the "rubbers" or grooms, whose sole duty consists in rubbing down the horses after they have taken their morning exercise. In one portion of the stable is a school-room, where at certain hours of the day and evening in the winter months, the boys are taught the common English branches. The school is taught by Mr. Brown, a professional teacher, who comes from Islip for the purpose. Regular prizes are given for proficiency in the various studies, the first prize being a gold watch. Exercising the horses is about the last thing the boys are set to do when they arrive at the farm. After they have served an apprenticeship of five years at this business they are given a chance to become horse jockeys, and that, it may be mentioned, is something they look forward to with the utmost interest. Before most of them can enter a race they are obliged to train off some of the superfluous flesh, to get them down to racing weight.

Some gossip about some of the jockeys who have acquired some reputation may not be uninteresting. Tom Costello is a mere youth, and was taken from the House of Refuge. The first race he rode he made $7,000, and he is said to be worth to-day $30,000, which he has "sifted down" in good securities. The regular price paid to jockeys for riding a horse is $25 if they win an $10 if they lose. But if they happen to win there is no telling what their earnings will be, for the owner of the horse invariably makes the rider a present of a considerable sum—ranging all the way from one hundred to two thousand dollars. In the case of Costello, last season he rode the King at Saratoga. One gentleman who was backing the horse offered $500 if he would ride him, whether he won or lost. If he won he was to get $1,500. Costello won, and so received for a few minutes' work what is the yearly salary of many a clerk in Brooklyn or New York. He is but 15 years of age and is very quiet in his habits. Larry Ural is 14 years old. He is the best light-weight jockey there is. Matt Connor is also 14 years of age and has been on the Lorillard farm since he was six years old. Charley O'Leary is a light-weight who can ride at seventy-five or eighty pounds. He is only 12 years of age and has won some very good races this season.

Tom Oehlert, the stallion, now nine years old, is serving at present. During the last year or two he has been lame. His total winnings have been $46,695. Duke of Magenta has been sold to Pierre Lorillard, and he is now at the latter's breeding farm at Jobstown, New Jersey. Winnings, $56,350. Monitor has been at Coney Island. He has run four or five races and won the Baltimore cup. Winnings, $28,865. Grenada has a bad leg. He ran at Coney Island in the spring. Winnings, $30,457. Sensation is four years old and has never been beaten in a race, though he has only run eight altogether and has not ran at all since he was two years old. Winnings, $20,000. Spawny is turned out in the field. He has a bad leg. He has won seven races. Winnings, $16,225.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"Come here, Hildebrand, my love," said a fond New Haven mother, as her spindle-legged youngster appeared just inside the gate. "Hildebrand! I should say so. How came you to be such a homey boy to such a high priced name?" said a blunt-spoken caller. "He may be homey, but he's mine, thank you. I didn't have to marry a widow with four great overgrown boys, as you did?" This trundling on clogs, metaphorically, doesn't pay.

By a flood in Bohemia 47 persons were drowned, and the damage to crops was incalculable.

A yacht is more like a Christian than the average man. She can stand on a tack without wearing.

Perhaps no medicine so universally regarded as a blood purifier, SWAYNE'S PILLS are prepared expressly to meet this necessity, being composed of purely vegetable ingredients, of the most delicate and concentrated juices enter largely into their composition; the whole strength of which is exerted on an entirely new principle. ## Vegetine

PURIFIES THE BLOOD

Renovates and Invigorates the Whole System.

Its Medicinal Properties are Alterative, Tonic, Solvent and Diuretic.

VEGETINE is made exclusively from the juices of carefully selected herbs, roots and berries, and is sold in concentrated form, and will effectually eradicate from the system every taint of Scrofula, Syphilis, Eczema, Tumors, Cancer, Cancerous Ulcers, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Syphilitic Diseases, Cancer, Fallowing at the Blomach, and all diseases, that arise from impure blood, Scrofula, Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, and Spinal Complaints, can only be effectually cured through the blood. For Ulcers and Eruptions of the Skin, Pustules, Bores, Chancres, Itch, Scabies, Headache, and Ringworm, VEGETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure. For Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints, Dropsy, Female Weakness, Leucorrhoea, arising from internal ulceration, and uterine diseases, and general debility, VEGETINE acts directly upon the cause of the complaint. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretory organs, always induces a cure, cures ulceration, and regulates the bowels. For Catarrh, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Nervousness, and General Prostration of the system, VEGETINE has no equal. It gives such perfect satisfaction as to the "VEGETINE," it purifies the blood, cleanses all of the organs, and possesses controlling power over the nervous system. The remarkable cures effected by VEGETINE have induced many physicians and apothecaries who we know to prescribe and use it in their own families. In fact, VEGETINE is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable BLOOD PURIFIER yet placed before the public.

For the Children.

The bees were naughty one day,
And wouldn't mind their queen,
They sniffed at the clover hay,
And scorned the scarlet bean.
Vowed they'd make no more honey,
But would haste to the river shore,
To dig for Captain Kidd's money,
And be rich and happy evermore.
The queen let fall a dish of honey,
In astonishment and dismay,

"Can't we buy honey with money?
If we cannot, please tell us so."
'If never a rilly bee makes honey,
You can't buy it, of course, you know."

The bees drooped their wings
And threw their spades away,
And tolled where the locust stings,
All the livelong summer day.

If well done, it is quite a representation of dancing.—Exchange.

Writing a Dictionary.

It is no "child's play" to make a dictionary. A writer in Wide Awake setting down the calculation of young readers, that at the rate of ten pages per day, it would take twenty years to write the amount of the whole of Webster's Dictionary and the following:

After I had written these words I took up Mr. Scudder's interesting book about Noah Webster, and found that he actually took him just twenty years to write it. He was forty-eight years old when he began it, and sixty-eight when he finished it in 1826. He says that the completion of the work,—

"When I had finished my copy sitting at my table in Cambridgeport, Mass., when I arrived at the place,"

I was seized with a tremor that difficult to proceed. I, however, moved up strength to complete the work, and then, walking about the room recovered."

A bunch of polyps borne on a stem was brought up from 2,175 fathoms between Madeira and the Spanish coast. As it came to the surface, it gave off brilliant phosphorescence, as if all the allied forms dredged in deep water.

No doubt these animals, like the cogeners in shallow waters, are in the deep sea; and the deep-sea with eyes probably congregated them or crepe their way in to from one bunch to another a scattered over the bottom, just half-see, half-see our way from

Dogs do not like to be doctored. A little dog who had a good deal of trouble with one of his eyes was cured by having liquid dropped into it every day from a quill. He submitted to it from anybody who called him master, but when the latter said to him, "Jack," he would seem to be in pain. The doctor said that was all right. When his eye was cured the master one day saw Jack at the house, and after looking at him for some time, he was suddenly around to see nobody was there. He then picked up a long, bony, large the quill which he

JOHN F. SANBORN, Editor and Proprietor.
SATURDAY, JULY 29, 1882.

Walking matches have been supplanted by prize fights. Public taste is getting refined!

Seven lives were lost Wednesday evening by an explosion on the steam-er Fanchon, at New Orleans.

Last year $837,000 worth of chewing gum was sold in the United States. Here is another promising field for the prohibitionists.

The Wisconsin prohibitionists will nominate Congressmen in all the districts and thus disarrange early the plans of the politicians.

The tax bill before Congress is undoubtedly dead for this session, and there is a strong opposition in the Senate to the naval bill.

The Republicans of the Second Vermont District have nominated Judge Luke P. Poland for Congress. This is a strong nomination.

The man arrested at Puerto Cabello as one of the Phoenix Park murderers, has made what is called a "confession." An Irish detective has been sent for him.

It is estimated that the Americans who go abroad this season, will carry $155,000,000 out of this country. The immigrants will bring back a very small part of this sum.

The Republicans of the First Minnesota Congressional District have nominated Milo White for Congress. This retires to private life the somewhat notorious Congressman Dummell.

It is thought now that Governor Cornell will be re-nominated for Governor of New York without any serious opposition. Cornell has made a good Governor.

A sensible tourist says: "Buy the guidebook, and then avoid the beaten paths it recommends. It leads inevitably to where fashion has gone, and if you want real rest and recreation you do not want to go there."

The river and harbor bill has passed both houses of Congress, and goes to the President. The bill contains an appropriation of $125,000 for the Providence river, $20,000 for Newport and $19,000 for Block Island.

George William Curtis denies that he has sent money to the Republican Congressional Campaign committee. He does not believe in assessments, and fails to see the fashion of making voluntary contributions.

The tenement houses owned by the Trinity Church Corporation of New York are in such a disgracefully bad condition that the authorities have taken the matter in hand. This exemplifies the truth that corporations—churches not excepted—have no souls.

Maine politics are keeping pace with the weather, and are getting very warm. The contest is even, and the Republicans, while reasonably confident of victory, admit that the vote will be close. A threatened "Independent Republican" ticket is a possible complication in the campaign.

The United States is a great country. It contracted with speed a stupendous public debt, and is now paying it off at an unprecedented rate.—In 1865, the debt was $2,756,431.571 43, making $78 25 for each inhabitant, with an interest charge of $4 29. Now the debt is $1,675,023.474 25, making $31 72 for each inhabitant, with an interest charge of $1 09.

War, Pestilence and Famine.

There are disquieting rumors regarding the existence of cholera in the East. It had its origin in the hot beds of pestilence, Singapore and the neighboring islands, and has already made its appearance in Calcutta. None who are aware of the rapidity with which the infection is transmitted and which is increased so far as Western nations are concerned by the change in the route from India through the Red Sea, will consider the action of the International Sanitary Commission in ordering a quarantine at Aden, of all vessels from the Dutch East Indies, and a vigilant inspection of all others from which there is a possibility of danger, superfluous. It is suggested also that the holy pilgrimages from India, which are fertile propagators of the disease by the filthy and unwholesome living of the pilgrims, be stopped.

War and pestilence in the East with famine following in their footsteps, would be an accumulation of horrors awful to contemplate. America may well be thankful that her isolated position frees her from these dread visitants. But the overflowing granaries of our land should charitably minister to the wants of the Eastern nations, if aid is needed.

Egypt in August.

The month of August is the time when in Egypt they have, besides the overflowing of the Nile, the malaria, infectious ophthalmia, fevers and cholera, or hot wind, which the strongest man cannot face without instantly feeling his muscles unstrung and his skin parched and feverish. Of course the Egyptians can stand what the English soldiers cannot on such soil, therefore a little delay means a great deal for Arabi.

Affairs in Egypt.

Matters in Egypt are still alarming. It is believed that Arabi Pasha has threatened to depose the house of Osman and proclaim Jemal ruler in its place, while the Khedive has officially proclaimed Arabi a rebel, has forbidden the Egyptian army to obey his orders and calls upon the people to assist the English. On Saturday night 600 of Arabi's cavalry raided Ramlah, an Alexandrian aristocratic suburb, and, Monday morning, 5,000 Nubians occupied Aboukir, and began constructing earthworks. A large number of bullocks intended for British consumption fell into the hands of the Egyptians. Mr. Gladstone has received a letter written by Arabi just before the bombardment, in which he declares that in case a shot is fired he will declare a holy war, and that Egypt will fight to the bitter end. But on Monday the British forces occupied Ramlah with very little opposition from the Egyptians.

The forces of Arabi Pasha are fortifying themselves strongly at Ramlah, Aboukir and Rosetta. His position is rendered almost impregnable by the overflow of the Nile, which will doubtless devastate the whole of lower Egypt. It is not thought that the Egyptians will attack the English. Arabi Pasha has gone to Cairo. It is announced that Turkish troops will be sent to Egypt, but the Porte hopes that a peaceful solution of the difficulties can be effected. The French Senate has agreed to a credit for an expedition to protect the Suez Canal. A message from the Queen was received in Parliament Tuesday, announcing the calling out of the reserves. Active war preparations in England continue. The British have 14,000 men available for service in the field, as soon as they can be conveyed to Egypt. The English seem to be all at sea as regards Arabi's army. It is estimated all the way from 6,000 to 100,000 men. The acting consul general of the United States in Egypt has left Cairo. He telegraphs that all American citizens are safe.

On Tuesday night at nine o'clock a decided attempt was made to surprise the British outposts under cover of darkness. A force of 600 men approached close to the British lines, and when the Thirty-eighth regiment opened fire the enemy retreated precipitately. During the remainder of the night the Egyptians continued moving about just beyond range. The attempt was preceded by reports that Arabi Pasha was attempting to treat for conditions for his surrender, and that a white flag was flying over his entrenchments. The reports were probably circulated to lull the vigilance of the British.

On Thursday a severe battle occurred between the English and Arabi's forces. The Egyptian troops were driven back into Ramlah with the loss of 40 killed and a large number wounded. Arabi's troops have become so bold that they have been stealing General Alison's gunpowder. On Thursday morning another great conflagration broke out in Alexandria.

It is stated that President Arthur has accepted an invitation to become the guest, next month, of a prominent New York gentleman who owns a cottage at Bar Harbor, Me., the trip to be solely for rest and no formalities to be accepted either there or en route. It is expected the President will arrive about the middle of the month, and make as long a stay as the demands of public business will allow.

A wise man is Governor St. John of Kansas. He told a reporter the other day that he was sure to be re-elected, but humbly added: "After finishing my work as Governor of this State I am through. I would not, if I could, be a United States Senator.—My fanaticism would not avail me there. I have no doubt that I would fade into a very mortifying existence."

Four hundred refugee Russian Jews were expelled from Castle Garden, New York, Tuesday. They absolutely refused to work, and their filthy, unmanageable habits rendered them intolerable to the Commissioners.

An explosion of gunpowder at Rice's quarry in Chicago, Thursday, damaged the surrounding property to the extent of $60,000. Many persons were injured and two children killed.

The barn and outhouses of Wm. A. Weeden, at Cumberland Hill, together with several tons of hay and several cattle, were burned Wednesday morning; loss, $5,000; partially insured.

Crop reports from all parts of the West and South continue excellent. The wheat, oat and barley crop will be the largest ever known.

In the British house of commons, an address, thanking the Queen for calling out the reserves, was approved without a division.

Hon. Charles H. Handy, State Senator from Warren, has been appointed Deputy Collector of customs at Providence.

The Ohio Brewers' Association have passed resolutions denouncing the Republican party for its recent legislation.

Cyrus C. Daniels, aged 60, committed suicide in Woonsocket, Tuesday night, by shooting himself.

An excursion steamer on Lake Champlain has been seized for overcrowding with passengers.

A Murderer in Limbo.

One of the assassins of Lord Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke at Dublin, has been apprehended. He was arrested July 10 at Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, on his own confession, and says that his name is William Westgate. He shipped on the 8th of May, under the name of O'Bryan, on the British bark Gladstone, from Swansea to Tucuman. He says he left Dublin on the night of the 6th of May by steamer to Swansea. The names of three of his accomplices and other details of the murders were taken by deposition before the British Consul. He says that he was employed by Mr. O'Connor and other influential persons. Parties who have seen the man give credence to his confession. In appearance the man is tall and slender. He says that the price of the deed was £20 to each of the assassins. He said that £20 was worth more to an Irishman than an Englishman's life. It is believed that the Venezuelan government will surrender him, although there is no extradition treaty. The British Foreign Office has been telegraphically communicated with, and Westgate has been taken to Caracas.

It is to be hoped that one of the human assassins has been in reality apprehended. If men ever deserved the severest punishment, the wretches who took the lives of Cavendish and Burke for a few paltry dollars, merit such penalty. All law-abiding citizens, whether they uphold the Irish cause or sympathize with England, will unite in an earnest desire that justice be meted out to these mercenary slayers of their fellow-men.

These are the days that people are talked to death, and when a candidate accepts a nomination in the terse words given below he merits the thanks of an oppressed country. This is the letter addressed by Robert E. Pattison of Philadelphia to the chairman of the committee of the Democratic State Convention appointed to notify him of his nomination for Governor:—

PHILADELPHIA, July 24, 1882.
GENTLEMEN:—I have just received your letter of July 21 advising me of the action of the Democratic State Convention. I accept the nomination for Governor, and if chosen for the office by the people I will strive to perform the duties to their satisfaction. Respectfully, yours,
ROBERT E. PATTISON.

Thursday was the hottest day of the season. In New York there were 104 deaths. The thermometer stood 97 at 3 o'clock, and 97 at midnight. In Boston it marked 98 in the shade, and from 105 to 120 in the street.

A dispatch from Fort Totten, Dakota, reports intense excitement in the Turtle mountain country, the Indians having warned all white settlers to leave that country or they will forcibly eject them.

Another harmless Virginia duel—Crockett vs. Wise—the one a State's Attorney, the other a candidate for Congress. Two rounds—nobody hit—Crockett satisfied—likewise Wise. No arrests.

Judge Lowell decides that a punched silver coin, plugged up with baser metal, is still a legal tender of full value, and not counterfeit, provided it contains the proper amount of silver.

The backs of the new national bank notes will be printed with brown ink. The bills will be known as "brown-backs," indicating that they were issued by rechartered banks.

It is believed that the mystery of the Bell murder, in Boston, is about to be solved. The murderer is known, and the police are on his track.

Later developments indicate that Ira Fletcher, who took his life on the church steps at East Greenwich, lived in Detroit, where he has relatives.

Colonel R. A. DeWitt, formerly Superintendent of the Sprague property in Augusta, Me., died suddenly in Boston, Monday morning.

A steamer capsized in the Delaware river, Thursday evening, and three passengers and a deck hand were drowned.

Bark "Oasis," of Freeport, Me., is believed to have been lost, with all on board.

It is expected that the president will veto the river and harbor bill.

The Providence nine again leads the League.

Human Prejudice.
Some one has wisely said: "There is nothing stronger than human prejudice," and this is true. Especially are minds prejudiced against "proprietary medicines," because some such medicines are sham, they keep the consumer in ignorance, and well say, because some consumers are quacks, all are. Their are counterfeits of all good things, even of gold coins and greenbacks. But there is true money, and there are true medicines. Among the latter is Hunt's Remedy, true and tried, and with the testimony of hundreds who have been healed and saved from the grave by it. For all diseases of the kidneys, the liver, the urinary organs, it stands without a peer. They who are afflicted with it, and the sickly child with it, let it be cheaper to buy a bottle of it yourself, and take it according to directions, than to pay for your prejudice by involving it at the hands of your physician at ten times the cost?

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

From all Parts of the World.

Horrible Atrocities at Tanta.

Reports from Tanta, Egypt, indicate that the most horrible atrocities were committed during the late massacre of Europeans and Christians. A party officer who has arrived from there says mobs of strikers and shouting women paraded the street, swinging clubs to which were attached legs and arms torn from the bodies of murdered Europeans. Amidst the groans of the wounded and over the piles of the dead and dying, the soldiers and rabble fought and wrestled together for loot and plunder from the victims. A gang of marauders from Alexandria murdered three local officers with their families, and heaping the bodies together in the public square burned them, by the aid of petroleum, zealously guarding the flames until the bodies were one undistinguishable mass of cinders. The mob also killed a dozen Greeks. It tied the viscera of one of the unfortunates to the tail of a dog, then covered the beast with petroleum, which was set on fire amidst the cries of joy from the women and children, who danced with glee around the holocaust. Eight times the mob was dispersed only to soon reassemble and renew its atrocities. Finally two sheiks with a strong body of Bedouins dispersed them. A number of Jews were escorted to a place of safety by a Bedouin sheik's bodyguard. Tanta, capital of the province of Gharbiyeh, is a handsome city lying in the heart of the Delta with 50,000 inhabitants. It has large public buildings and the Khedive has there an extensive palace.

A City Father Wants to Fight.

While the representatives of Sullivan and Wilson, pugilists, were wrangling as to the place and conditions of a prize fight, in New York, ex Alderman James Duane, of Brooklyn, laid a thousand dollars on the table, and said that he would fight either Sullivan or Wilson, anywhere, for almost any amount. His challenge was not accepted. Sullivan and Wilson agreed to have another hard glove fight at New York on August 14.

Treasurer on Blaine.

Mr. William Henry Trescott, late special envoy to South America, furnishes for publication an open letter to ex-Secretary Blaine, in which he defends Mr. Blaine against all the charges made against him in connection with Peru and Chili, and says that they are too absurd for serious consideration. As he understood it, Mr. Blaine's object was a friendly solution of the present difficulties and by the peace congress to prevent the possibilities of future war.

Condemnation.

Oscar M. Goodwin, late cashier of the Logansport, Ind., National Bank, has been arrested for a $17,000 defalcation.—There was an $80,000 fire at Philadelphia, Sunday, and a $120,000 fire at Lancaster, O.—The North Adams incendiary, Walden, was sentenced to four years in the state prison.—A fire in the Mutual Glass Company's building on Barclay street, New York, Saturday afternoon, caused a loss of $30,000; fully insured.—The Indians are on the war-path in Pleasant Valley, Arizona.—Justice Waite will sign a writ of habeas corpus in the Curtis assessment collection case, that the matter may be argued in the United States supreme court this fall. After Curtis is disposed of, Hubbell's will be the next case.

Death of George F. Marsh.

Hon. George F. Marsh, for twenty years U. S. Minister to Italy, died suddenly Monday, at his post of duty, aged 81 years. Mr. Marsh was a native of Woodstock, Vt., was educated at Dartmouth, and was admitted to the bar at Burlington. He was elected to the Twenty-eighth Congress as a Whig, and was thrice re-elected. He was U. S. Minister at Turkey for a year or two, and was sent on a special mission to Greece. He was appointed to the Italian mission in 1861. Mr. Marsh was eminent as a scholar, and his contributions to our permanent literature were many and valuable.

The Town of Fresno Burned.

At Fresno, Cal., about 50 houses have been burned, including five hotels, the Ogle House, the French Hotel, the Star Hotel, the Farmers Home and the Mechanics House; also, Hugbee's livery stable, the Farmers Bank, Metropolitan Hall, stores, barber shops, saloons, etc. The losses will probably reach $200,000.

Serious Disasters in Russia.

It is reported that the Russian steamer Moscow has been sunk by a boiler explosion, with two hundred lands.—300 houses and some large warehouses have been destroyed by fire at Radziwillow, Russia, and 3000 people are homeless.

Deaths from Toy-Pistol Lockjaw.

Oliver, aged 18, son of Herman Brightman, in Fall River, Saturday, the wound received July 4; Michael Alkerman, aged 26 years, in Chicago, Saturday, wound received in the thigh July 4; Albert Gates, at Stonington, Ct., on Sunday.—There are 20 fatal cases at Chicago, Ill.

The army worm has appeared in Fall River, in large numbers. The farms in Somerset and Swansea have suffered severely; in the city, lawns and gardens are considerably damaged. Several parties have dug ditches around their gardens and filled them with tar or water, and taken other measures to check the advance of the pest, which steadily increases in numbers. They first appeared in the city on Sunday, and seem to be moving south.
GENTLEMEN—Your Hop Bitters have been of great value to me. I was laid up with typhoid fever for over two months and could get no relief until I tried your Hop Bitters.
To those suffering with debility or any one in feeble health, I cordially recommend them.

GOOD BUTTER.

The best butter is made by the use of the Furgerson Creamer, and why? Because the cream is raised dry air, producing a dry, hard cream and a fine quality of butter.

The fact that the cream is kept at one temperature from the time it enters the creamer is the secret of its quality. This creamer requires less ice and less care than any other and is pronounced by all THE BEST. Call and examine.

Rheumatism, Eruptions,

and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetis,

Tumors, and Gout.

Rheum, Worms, Gout,

Neuralgia, a Dinner

Pill, and Purging the blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfect. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure.

They purge out the foul humors of the blood;

they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organs to action; and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of everybody, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits derived from these Pills.

They are the safest and best physic for children because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.
